Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 17-20 are allowable over the prior art of record.
3. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 17, the invention relates to a digital video system (apparatus and method) capable of real-time recording, and an information recording medium (recordable optical disc) used in this system.

The closest reference Nakai et al (US 5,999,698) disclose a digital video disk or digital versatile disk (DVD disk) capable of recording image and audio data on a signal recording medium and reproducing them in synchronism with each other, and a reproduction system therefor.

However, Nakai et al fail to explicitly disclose an information recording medium configured to have data recorded thereon and data reproduced therefrom by an information recording/reproducing apparatus, the data including audio/video data and control information for managing the audio/video data, where the information recording medium comprises a management area separate from the data area and configured to store control information, the control information includes original PGC information having one or more pieces of cell information and one or more cell information search pointers, the original PGC information includes program information corresponding to a program, the program information includes number information corresponding to a part of the cells in the program, and the program information includes thumbnail pointer information having numeral information corresponding to one of the cells.

Regarding claim 19, the invention relates to a digital video system (apparatus and method) capable of real-time recording, and an information recording medium (recordable optical disc) used in this system.

The closest reference Nakai et al (US 5,999,698) disclose a digital video disk or digital versatile disk (DVD disk) capable of recording image and audio data on a signal recording medium and reproducing them in synchronism with each other, and a reproduction system therefor.

However, Nakai et al fail to explicitly disclose a method of recording information on an information recording medium, where the information recording medium comprises a management area separate from the data area and configured to store control information, the control information includes original PGC information having one or more pieces of cell information and one or more cell information search pointers, the original PGC information includes program information corresponding to a program, the program information includes number information corresponding to a part of the cells in the program, and the program information includes thumbnail pointer information having numeral information corresponding to one of the cells.

Regarding claim 20, the invention relates to a digital video system (apparatus and method) capable of real-time recording, and an information recording medium (recordable optical disc) used in this system.

The closest reference Nakai et al (US 5,999,698) disclose a digital video disk or digital versatile disk (DVD disk) capable of recording image and audio data on a signal recording medium and reproducing them in synchronism with each other, and a reproduction system therefor.

However, Nakai et al fail to explicitly disclose a method of reproducing information from an information recording medium, where the information recording medium further comprises a management area separate from the data area and configured to store control information, the control information includes original PGC information having one or more pieces of cell information and one or more cell information search pointers, the original PGC information includes program information corresponding to a program, the program information includes number information corresponding to a part of the cells in the program, and the program information includes thumbnail pointer information having numeral information corresponding to one of the cells.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Ozaki et al (US 5,991,798) teach a technique for reading data from a WWW (World Wide Web) server or a package medium such as a CD-ROM or a DVD-ROM and displaying the read data by using HTML (hyper Text Markup Language).

Heo (US 6,741,796) teaches a digital versatile disk (DVD), and an apparatus and method for playing the DVD, including an audio DVD and an apparatus and method for playing the same.

Katayama (US 5,902,115) teaches a karaoke recording medium, a method and apparatus for reproducing karaoke data from a karaoke recording medium, and a method and apparatus for recording karaoke data on a recording medium.
